DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The font style is not consistent through out the specification, i.e. lines 2 and 3 on page five are italicized and the remaining lines on page 5 are not.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the bottom side" in line 5 and "the region" in lines 5-

6. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 2 recites the limitation "the lower region" in line 4 and "the two shingle shoulders" in lines 7-8. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 3 recites the limitation "the two shingle shoulders" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Application/Control Number: 10/757,691 Page 3

Art Unit: 3635

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S.

Patent No. 1,888,055 to Tobin et al. in view of U.S. Patent No 3,866,378 to Kessler.

Regarding claims 1-4, Tobin et al. discloses a roof shingle comprising a shingle neck (11 on fig. 3) and a shingle body (10 on fig. 3). Tobin et al. does not disclose a raised engagement and guide element at the bottom side of the lower region of the shingle body, where the raise engagement and guide element exhibits a female mold undercut zone in the direction of the body and is placed remote from the shingle neck and where correspondingly dimensioned male mold like undercut zones are disposed at the two shingle locations. Kessler discloses a shingle comprising a shingle body (13 on fig. 1) with a raised engagement and guide element at the bottom side of the lower region of the shingle body, where the raise engagement and guide element exhibits a female mold undercut zone in the direction of the body (12 on fig. 1) and where correspondingly dimensioned male mold like undercut zones are disposed at the upper region of the body (6 on fig. 1). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the body portion of the shingle disclosed by Tobin et al. to include the male and female undercut zones as disclosed by Kessler. One would have been motivated to make such a modification to make the installation of the shingles easier and to provide extra securing means for the shingles.

Art Unit: 3635

Regarding the width requirements specified in claim 3, this limitation is a design choice and is not a critical aspect of the claimed invention, since applicant has not indicated the criticality of this feature.
